

A long, thin horizontal line extending across the width of the page, starting from the decorative graphic element and extending towards the right edge.

